DIA-KRSC Workshop 2024

Advancing Regulatory Science of Innovative Medicines for Global Convergence

26 September 2024
The-K Hotel Seoul, Korea

Overview

Since the COVID-19 pandemic, the development of medical products based on the latest innovative technologies has accelerated, and the global pharmaceutical market is expanding rapidly. This has made regulatory science more important than ever.

The Korea Regulatory Science Center (KRSC) and DIA jointly organized a workshop entitled "Future Development Direction and Regulatory Science for Innovative Drugs". With 2024 KRSC-DIA Workshop on September 26th in Seoul, immediately following the 2024 DIA Asia Meeting, will provide you with a unique opportunity to discuss the regulatory perspectives and innovations first hand.

The topics in each session:

Session I : Regulatory science perspective on Drug development using innovative tools- Current status and future directions of regulatory science for innovative medicines. Regulatory convergence and exchange of information on the regulatory framework and any proposed changes from US, Europe, and Asian countries.

Session II : Advancing Pharmacovigilance - Regulatory Use of Database and Risk Management Plan.

Session III : Regulatory Science Strategies and Case Study for Innovative Drug Development. In-depth quality control and safety assessment strategies for innovative new drugs.

Objective:

- Gain a comprehensive understanding of the latest innovations and changes in the biohealth sector, including medical product development
- Get updates on global regulatory policies, review processes, and safety assessments for innovative new drugs
- Get insight into the safety measures in place to protect people during the development and use of innovative medicines
- Discuss the future of the regulatory science of medicines using cutting-edge technologies
- Accelerating the development of innovative medicines through regulatory science collaborations
