MAKING INNOVATION WORK FOR EVERYONE

The last decade has indeed been a time of rapid changes in the global discovery and development of new health care products.

Patient-Centric Initiatives

Putting patients at the center of their health care decisions.

Pre-Competitive Partnerships

Bringing key stakeholders together to address global health concerns.

Big Data

Sharing results to better understand adverse events, recalls, labeling information, study design detail, datasets, and clinical trial results.

Novel Clinical Trial Design

Taking advantage of science and regulatory changes to conduct smaller, faster trials.

Precision Medicine

Understanding the factors that predispose patients to disease, leading to advancements in therapeutic treatments.

Bayesian Statistics

Improving study designs by allowing one or more adaptations based on information-to-date.
